

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

A big change needs lots of support!

Learning Outcome

Describe the reasons or results of events or actions in spoken or written texts, in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- If you were going to change your diet, would you need the support of a friend to help you make the change?
- Why are some people not able to make changes to their diet?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about beliefs and opinions and use colloquial expressions.
- I can report other people's words and thoughts.
- I can talk about the results of an action or an event.

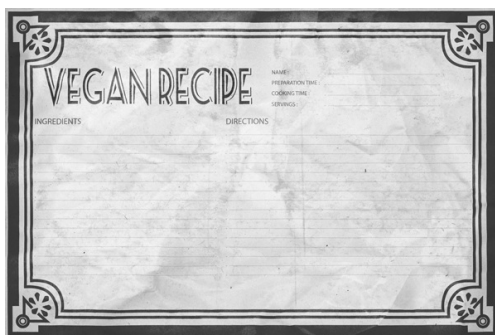

Let's Explore!

Peter gets Amy on his side.

* "On his side" means supporting him and agreeing with his decisions and actions.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Peter: Hello?

Vanessa: Hi Peter. Did you get those recipes I sent you? I sent them this morning, and consequently, you should have received them by now. My Wi-Fi wasn't working when I got home; otherwise, I would have sent them last night.

Peter: Yes, I got them and I even printed them off. My printer is not working though. As a result, I had to go to the library. While I was there, I got a cookbook of vegetarian dishes. The librarian didn't think that the recipes would be hard to follow. I told her about my idea to do a cleanse. She didn't feel like it was a good idea to cut out coffee. I think she's crazy about coffee.

Vanessa: That's a good idea getting a cookbook! I like your enthusiasm. Did you talk to Amy about helping you with some of the recipes?

Peter: Yes, I did. She didn't believe that I was going to do a cleanse. She thinks that I'm too addicted to sugar and fat, thus I will not be able to go without them.

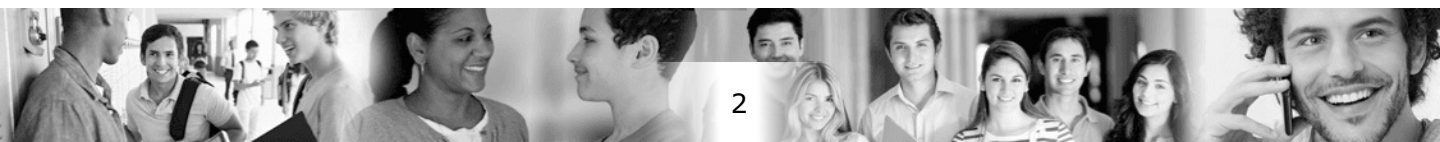

Vanessa: But that's the whole point of doing a cleanse. Did you explain it to her? We have to completely eliminate these unhealthy foods or else we cannot break our addictions

Peter: Yes, I explained it to her in more detail. Consequently, she wants to try it too. She wants to support me. However, she didn't expect that she would be able to help with the cooking. She says she can't cook the meals that I will need to eat!

Vanessa: Really? I thought she was a pretty good cook. I'm surprised that she said that.

Peter: She likes to cook with meat and butter and salt and cheese, all the things I have to forgo. She felt that she wouldn't be a good vegan cook.

Vanessa: I'm sure you'll figure something out.

Let's Practice!

Jeff talks about what is going to happen!

Instructions: Use the words from the box to correctly complete the sentences.

Word Bank

consequently / otherwise / thus / as a result / consequently

1. I sent them this morning, and _____, you should have received them by now.
2. My wif wasn't working when I got home; _____, I would have sent them last night.
3. She thinks that I am too addicted to sugar and fat. _____, I would not be able to go without them.
4. I explained it to her in more detail. _____, she wants to try it too.
5. I eat a lot of sugar; _____, I am gaining a lot of weight.

Let's Practice!

What did Peter learn from other people?

Instructions: Unscramble the words in order to find the mystery sentence.

1. didn't think / to follow. / that the / The librarian / be hard / recipes would

2. a good / feel like / cut / it was / idea to / out coffee. / She didn't

3. a cleanse. / I was / going / She didn't / to do / believe that

4. would be / expect / the cooking. / that she / able to / help with / She didn't

Extension Activity

Write a survey about food addictions.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Find out about your classmates' food addictions.
- With a partner, write at least 5 questions to get information about what kind of food or ingredients your classmates are addicted to.
- Ask 5 people to answer the questions and take notes on their answers.
- Summarize your results in a paragraph.
- Report your findings to your group or class.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I write 5 survey questions about food addictions.

☐ ☐

I read my questions to 5 people.

☐ ☐

I record the responses of 5 people.

☐ ☐

I summarize my findings.

☐ ☐

I present my findings to a group.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to be crazy about something (expression): to like very much e.g. I think she's crazy about coffee.
- recipe (noun): a set of instructions for preparing a particular dish, including a list of the ingredients required
e.g. Did you talk to Amy about helping you with some of the recipes?
- to go without (verb): to live with the absence of something e.g. She thinks that I'm too addicted to sugar and fat. Thus, I will not be able to go without them.
- to forgo (verb): to give something up
e.g. She likes to cook with meat and butter and salt and cheese, all the things I have to forgo.
- to break (verb): interrupt; stop e.g. We have to completely eliminate these unhealthy foods or else we cannot break our addictions.
- to eliminate (verb): to completely remove or get rid of something e.g. It's very difficult to eliminate salt from your diet.

Learning Points

Using Links to Express Result

You can use adverbial expressions to talk about a consequence or result of an action or situation.

There are many times when you will need to talk about a consequence of an action or situation. In both speaking and writing, there are adverbial expressions that you can use to do this.

I broke my glasses yesterday.	Thus, Consequently, Therefore, As a result,	I had to go to the optician and have them replaced.
I broke my glasses yesterday and	thus consequently therefore as a result	had to go to the optician and have them replaced.

You can also use as a result at the end of the sentence.

I broke my glasses yesterday and had to go to the optician and have them replaced as a result.

You can also talk about what happens when you don't do something.

We need to protect our natural resources now, otherwise there will be nothing left for future generations.

We need to protect our natural resources now or else there will be nothing left for future generations.

Examples:

- I sent them this morning and consequently you should have received them by now.
- My Wi-Fi wasn't working when I got home; otherwise, I would have sent them last night.
- She thinks that I'm too addicted to sugar and fat. Thus, I will not be able to go without them.
- I explained it to her in more detail. Consequently, she wants to try it too.

Learning Points

Negatives in Reporting

You can use your own words to report what someone says. You can also report what someone didn't say by making the reporting verb or the clause itself negative.

If you want to express what someone did not say, you can use the reporting verb in the negative.

I spoke with my mother for over an hour this morning, but she didn't say anything about the dinner party she went to last night. I had to call my aunt to find out what happened at the dinner party.

(meaning: "my mother said nothing about the dinner party")

If someone says something in the negative, you can simply express this in the reported clause or in the reporting clause.

Mario: "This movie isn't exciting and the actors can't act."

Mario thought the movie wasn't exciting and the actors couldn't act. (in the reported clause)

Lana: "I don't think so because the acting is amazing."

Lana didn't agree because the acting was amazing. (in the reporting clause)

We more commonly report negative sentences with some verbs, however, by changing the reporting verb. These are verbs like: expect, intend, believe, feel, suppose, think, want, propose, and plan.

Maya: "I suppose there isn't any more sugar in the pantry."

Olga didn't suppose there was any more sugar in the pantry.

Ricardo: "I don't think there is any more flour in the pantry."

Ricardo didn't think there was any more flour in the pantry.

Examples:

- The librarian didn't think that the recipes would be hard to follow.
- She didn't feel like it was a good idea to cut out coffee.
- She didn't believe that I was going to do a cleanse.
- She didn't expect that she would be able to help with the cooking.
- She felt that she wouldn't be a good vegan cook.

