

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Changing habits takes determination!

Learning Outcome

Describe emotions and feelings in present and past situations in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- Have you ever had to quit doing something or stop eating something? What was it?
- Why is it easier for some people to change habits and very difficult for other people to change?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about people's personalities and use colloquial expressions.
- I can report other people's words and thoughts.
- I can talk about unlikely or impossible situations in the present or in the future.

Let's Explore!

Does Peter have an addictive personality?

* "An addictive personality" refers to a person who easily becomes addicted to things and finds it difficult to change habits.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Well, this is going to be fun! I'm so happy that I can spend the weekend with you two and share my love of cooking and food. If I could take the whole week off, I would be able to teach you everything I know. I think it's really commendable that you are doing this, Peter. You have to be motivated and dedicated to make this sacrifice. If it were easy, we would all have great eating habits and very healthy diets.
- Peter: Amy will be here soon, but we can start flipping through the recipes. She asked if we could make sure we get some dessert recipes too. She's not as strong-willed as I am when it comes to sugar. She also asked whether she could have honey.
- Vanessa: There are desserts that don't have any refined sugar or dairy in them. They could use maple syrup or honey for sweetness. Unlike with coffee, you don't have to go cold turkey on sugar.
- Peter: Oh, good! I feel more gung ho now.
- Vanessa: Is Amy going to do the cleanse too? If she could do it with you, it would make it easier for you to stay on track.
- Peter: She asked why I was doing it, and when I explained that I want to change my habits, she got interested. She has a pretty healthy diet, but there are some things that she eats too much of. Just bad habits.
- Vanessa: Yeah. It's just a matter of recognizing habits and making some small changes.
- Peter: Amy has lots of questions for you though. She wondered if it was possible to have a cheat day, you know, a day when you can eat whatever you want.
- Vanessa: Well, if she really needed one, she could have a cheat day. For example, if she were at a birthday party and everyone was having cake, she could have a small piece. It's not good to have cheat days though because they make it more difficult to change habits.

Let's Practice!

Well, this is going to be fun!

Instructions: Match the sentences on the left with their missing parts on the right.

COLUMN A

1. She asked if we could
2. She also asked whether
3. She asked why
4. She wondered if it was possible
5. They asked us why

COLUMN B

- a. make sure we get some dessert recipes too.
- b. I was doing it, and when I explained that I want to change my habits she got interested.
- c. we wanted to cook so badly!
- d. to have a cheat day, you know, a day when you can eat whatever you want.
- e. she could have honey.

Let's Practice!

We can start flipping through the recipes.

Instructions: Complete the text below by choosing from the options that you are given.

motivated / cheat / strong-willed / go cold turkey / commendable / sacrifice / gung ho

I think it's really _____ that you are doing this, Peter. You have to be _____ and dedicated to make this _____. She's not as _____ as I am when it comes to sugar. Unlike with coffee, you don't have to _____ on sugar. Oh, good! I feel more _____ now. I really need a _____ day!

Extension Activity

Watch Nora Volkow's TEDMED Talk entitled "Why do our brains get addicted?"

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Watch Nora Volkow's TEDMED Talk entitled "Why do our brains get addicted?"
- Take notes while you watch.
- If possible, compare notes with a partner who watched the same video.
- Look up any new vocabulary.
- Write a paragraph that summarizes what you watched and explains whether or not you agree with the speaker.
- Read your paragraph to your class or group.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I watch and listen to a TEDMED Talk.

☐
☐

I take notes while watching a video.

☐
☐

I look up new vocabulary.

☐
☐

I write a paragraph to summarize what I heard.

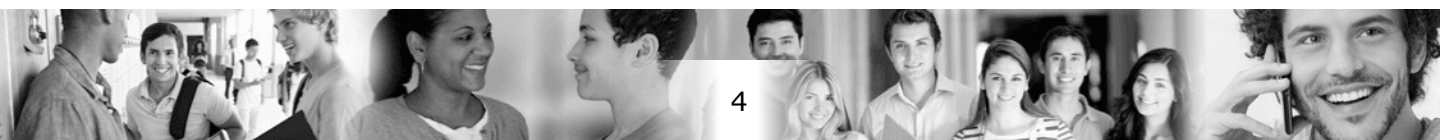

☐
☐

I read my paragraph to a group.

☐
☐

Target Words

- motivated (adjective): interested in or enthusiastic about doing something e.g. You have to be motivated and dedicated to make this sacrifice.
- commendable (adjective): deserving of praise e.g. I think it's really commendable that you are doing this, Peter.
- dedicated (adjective): devoted to a task or purpose
e.g. You have to be dedicated to change your habits.
- sacrifice (noun): something that you give up
e.g. Giving up dairy is a big sacrifice for me.
- strong-willed (adjective): determined to do as one wants e.g. She's not as strong-willed as I am when it comes to sugar.
- gung ho (adjective): enthusiastic
e.g. I feel more gung ho now.
- to cheat (verb): to behave in a dishonest way or deceive someone in order to get what you want e.g. If she really needed one, she could have a cheat day.
- go cold turkey (expression): to abruptly and completely stop something e.g. You don't have to go cold turkey on sugar.

Learning Points

Reporting Questions

You can report things people say as well as questions people ask. If you want to report questions in your own words, there are some differences in the sentence structure.

You may use and ask different questions on a daily basis. There are wh-questions and yes/no questions.

If you want to report information or a wh-question, you can simply use the reporting clause with the wh-word.

What is your name? → The teacher asked me what my name was.

Where do you live? → The teacher asked me where I lived.

When do you want to have lunch? → My mother asked me when I wanted to have lunch.

When you are reporting yes/no questions, you need to add if or whether. Remember that only whether can be followed by a to-infinitive.

Fernanda: "Do you want to work at the hospital?"

Fernanda asked whether I wanted to work at the hospital.

Luis: "Will you be at the mall later?"

Luis asked if/whether I would be at the mall later.

Did you notice the word order when you were reporting what people asked? The common word order for reporting with wh- or if/whether-clauses is like that of a statement.

*My mother asked me when I wanted to have lunch.

*Luis asked if/whether I would be at the mall later.

Questions with 'Be':

Who is your favorite singer?

*The stranger asked me who my favorite singer was.

OR

*The stranger asked me who was my favorite singer.

What are the CDs used for?

*My friend asked me what the CDs were used for.

OR

*My friend asked me what were the CDs used for.

Questions with 'Do':

When do you want to have lunch?

Learning Points

My mother asked me when I wanted to have lunch

Fernanda: "Do you want to work at the hospital?"

Fernanda asked whether I wanted to work at the hospital.

What did you study in university?

She asked what I had studied in university.

Did you like the movie?

She asked if/whether I liked the movie.

Why don't you like the actors?

She asked why I didn't like actors.

What happens to 'do' in the above examples?

You don't use 'do' in the wh- or if/whether-clauses. If the question is negative, however, you can use 'do' in the negative.

Examples:

- She asked if we could make sure we get some dessert recipes too.
- She also asked whether she could have honey.
- She asked why I was doing it.
- She wondered if it was possible to have a cheat day.

Learning Points

Unlikely Conditionals: The Main Clause

You can use the second conditional to talk about events that are unlikely to happen in the future or impossible in the present.

You can use this unlikely conditional with would in the main clause.

If + simple past, ... would + base form of verb

Sometimes would is shorted to 'd.

If James didn't smoke , he would be healthier.

If James didn't smoke , he'd be healthier.

You can also use other modals like could or might in the main clause. Could means "would be able to" and might means that something is possible but unlikely to happen.

If I had a printer, I could print all my research papers from home.

I could buy a car if I got a raise.

If I spoke Spanish, I might travel to South America.

He might understand the grammar better if he came to school everyday.

Examples:

- If I could take the whole week off, I would be able to teach you everything I know.
- If it were easy, we would all have great eating habits and very healthy diets.
- If she could do it with you, it would make it easier for you to stay on track.
- If she really needed one, she could have a cheat day.
- If she were at a birthday party and everyone was having cake, she could have a small piece.

